"Getting Kidspired": Using Kidspiration Across the Curriculum

Presented by: Evelyn J. Woldman

Course #: 10-231

Date: Thursday, January 21, 2010

Time: 8:30AM – 3:30 PM

Register by: January 7, 2010

Audience: Educators Grades PreK-4

Kidspiration was developed for primary and intermediate educators who are looking for a visual-based planning tool for use with their younger students. It has many of the same features as Inspiration, but has additional built-in supports such as text-to-speech and hundreds of content appropriate clip art. Participants will have an opportunity to learn not only the many capabilities of this popular program, but also to learn the many ways that it can be used across the curriculum to directly address curriculum standards and the Frameworks, and to develop student understanding. Specific content examples will be used and time will be allotted for participants to create models and lesson ideas to use in their own classroom.

About the Presenter:

Evelyn J. Woldman has a Masters degree in Social Studies Education from Boston University and a C.A.G.S. in Teaching in Education with Technology from Lesley University. She is a MESPA staff member and is also on the adjunct faculty at Lesley University, Simmons College and Northeastern University.
